

ONE MORE WEEK OF CAMPAIGN ON AMENDMENTS

Soldiers' Bonus, Poll Tax and Change of Senatorial Districts Up

LEGION IS ACTIVE

Poll Tax Also Receiving Support—Senatorial District Plan Antiquated

Columbus, Oct. 29.—Another week will end campaigning and, on Tuesday Nov. 8, Ohio voters at the polls will pass upon the proposal that three amendments to the constitution be adopted, providing for a soldiers' bonus, a poll tax and for changing the boundaries of state senatorial districts.

A systematic campaign is being waged throughout Ohio by officers and members generally of American legion. State officials, including Gov. Davis too, have delivered addresses and issued statements supporting the soldiers bonus proposal.

Although there appears to be no organized opposition to this proposal, replies to a questionnaire sent out by O. K. Skimansky, Columbus secretary of the Ohio board of commerce to members of that organization indicate that many Ohio manufacturers feel that this is an inopportune time for a bonus for Ohio's former soldiers in the recent war.

Voters of 15 other states have voted favorably in soldiers bonus proposals.

If the proposed constitutional amendment is adopted it is estimated that the state will pay to its 243,000 world war soldiers, sailors and marines and army nurses approximately $25,000,000 in "adjusted compensation" as the former soldiers term it at the rate of $10 per month for each month each person, eligible to the bonus, spent in the service, provided, however, that no recipient of the bonus shall receive more than $250.

Persons with the rank of captain or below, in the army, or marines, or corresponding rank in the navy, enlistment from this state, are eligible. Those supporting the movement for a soldier's bonus claim, among other things that the soldier was out of his line of civilian occupation so long that when he returned to private life and his former position he was the first to be discharged or laid off, due to industrial depression; that the use of this money by the ex-serviceman, in every community will help revive business and lift the buckeye state out of the prevailing business depression; that the bonus will cost the same as two weeks more in the war would have cost Ohio and that it will show the ex-servicemen that the state realizes the inequality of wage during the war period.

The proposed poll amendment if adopted would make the Ohio constitution, article 12, section 1, read: "The general assembly may provide by law for the levying of a poll, or per capita tax."

The state legislature then could enact a law requiring each resident of Ohio to pay certain sum as an annual tax. In a number of other states a poll tax ranges from $1 to $2.50 per head.

Supporters of the movement for a poll tax claim that many foreign born residents of Ohio do not pay any taxes but are receiving the benefit of the state's public school system.

The third proposed amendment to state constitution would provide for the reduction of the senatorial districts to 26 from 34 without materially altering the number of senators, ranging from 22 to 36.

Advocates of this proposal claim that the existing arrangement of senatorial districts is unsatisfactory as well as antiquated.

ELLIS ISLAND FORCE CUT

Washington, October 29.—Immigration Bureau forces at Ellis Island have been reduced from 780 inspectors and employees to 520 since last July, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis announced today. The prospects are for a further decrease, he added. Part of the reduction has been made possible by the new immigration act.

Miss Morgan is said to be in New York at the present time. The photo is one of the most recent ones made of the daughter of the late world known financier.

POSSE SEEKS WRECKERS OF FAST TRAIN

One Seriously Injured and Score Endangered in Michigan Wreck.

CRAZED MEN SOUGHT

Carload of Horses All Killed as Car Goes Over Embankment.

Larar, Mich., Oct. 29.—A posse of several hundred men led by Sheriff Ray Baker is combing surrounding territory today trying to apprehend three escaped inmates of the Michigan home and training school who are believed to have deliberately wrecked the first section of Grand Trunk train No. 5 between here and Elba shortly before midnight last night, causing serious injury to one and endangering the lives of scores of other persons.

An unidentified passenger riding in the first day coach was seriously injured. A man riding in a special car with race horses being transported from Port Huron to Chicago was badly bruised and the fireman severely burned.

The car containing the horses went over an embankment and all the horses were killed. Circumstances surrounding the wreck convince railroad officials it was the work of a crazed man, probably three escaped inmates of the Michigan home and training school, which has had several recent escapes. A section of a rail had been removed, resulting in all the cars, except the pullman leaving the track. Tools, apparently used in removing the rail were left along the track. The railroad runs close to a marsh at this point. Three men were seen by the brakeman when he ran back to signal the second section but they disappeared before he could question them.

MYSTERY SOLVED BY FINDING OF BODIES

Portsmouth, Oct. 29.—The veil of mystery that surrounded the whereabouts of John Wheeler Newman, 26, shoe worker, married, and Miss Louise Doyle, 19, who disappeared from their homes October 21, was swept aside today when their bodies were found in an empty cottage near George. They had been shot to death.

The bodies were found by Roscoe Chandler and Harvey Lyon, who had gone to the house to clean it up. The men had just stepped inside when their attention was attracted to the form of a woman in one corner of the room. They investigated further and discovered the body of Newman.

Coroner J. O. Hendrickson said that the young couple had been killed and their bodies carried to the house. The coroner stated that the bodies had been dead more than 48 hours.

LOYD GEORGE CONFIDENT OF SUPPORT VOTE

Premier Expects Confidence of Commons In Irish Peace.

TORIES OBJECTING

Most Factions and Newspapers Supporting Premier.

London, Oct. 29.—Confident that he will receive a vote of confidence in the house of commons Monday on the Irish peace issue, Premier Lloyd George went to his country estate at Chequers today for a quiet week end. The premier planned to hold a few informal conferences and will keep in touch with the Sinn Fein peace delegates until he returns. The premier is receiving assurances of support from most of the factions in commons outside of the Tories, it was declared today by political supporters of Mr. Lloyd George.

Most of the newspapers with the exception of the Morning Post, organ of the Tories, support the premier's Irish policy.

Both sides—liberals and unionists—will rally their full strength over the week end and the battle in commons on Monday probably will be one of the most spectacular in recent years.

MILITARY EXPERTS SAY WAR WITH IRISH WOULD COST BILLION

Lloyd George to Use Figures in His Speech On Question Monday.

London, Oct. 29.—British military experts have advised Premier Lloyd George that it would cost Britain $1,000,000,000 to conduct a successful war in Ireland and would cause two years time for the campaign, not to mention the grave loss in human life, it was learned.

The premier will make his supreme speech on the Irish situation in the house of commons on Monday and it was in his search for oratorical arguments that he sought information from the military experts as to the cost of suppressing Ireland in the event the peace conference broke down and the armistice was repealed.

The premier is expected to use this information on Monday in replying to his Tory critics in the house of commons.

It would be necessary for the British military forces to undertake a "block house" campaign against the Irish republican forces if war were renewed in Ireland, the premier's informants pointed out.

The premier is preparing his speech at Chequers. He will deliver it in commons just before the house votes upon the resolution of censure introduced by the unionist members.

JAPAN WILL ENTER CONFERENCE UNDER CLOUD OF SUSPICION

Delegation Hopes To Remove the Cause of This Trust.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Japan enters the armament and far east conference two weeks from today with a full realization that a "cloud of suspicion hangs over her," and it will be the consistent effort of the Japanese delegation to so cooperate with other nations that the causes of this distrust and suspicion will be removed.

This frank acknowledgement of existing distrust toward Japan and denial that there is any just basis for it was made by Maj. Gen. Tanaka and vice Admiral Kato, chiefs of the military and naval sections of the Tokyo delegation. They spoke at the first formal function given by the Japanese embassy in connection with the conference. Present were two score Washington newspaper correspondents and an almost equal number of Japanese newspapermen here to report the conference, representatives of the state department and officials of the embassy.

Extreme frankness featured the talks of the guests.

"There is no use blinking at the fact," said Gen. Tanaka, "that Japan has been made the target of attack at the hands of certain foreigners claiming that it is a militaristic country and that the country is under the thumb of militarists."

"We are quite prepared to do our best regarding the limitation of armaments and at the same time we shall spare no efforts in cooperation with the Japanese delegates charged with the consideration of pacific and far eastern questions for the removal of the existing clouds of suspicion overhanging Japan."

Champagne Undoes Emperor's Coup

Berlin, Oct. 29.—Former Emperor Charles' taste for champagne was chiefly responsible for the failure of his royalist coup, according to news from Budapest today. It is now believed certain in many circles in Hungary that the monarchist adventure would have succeeded in taking Budapest by surprise if Charles and his generals had acted swiftly. But upon arriving at Odenburg Charles wasted twenty-four hours in celebrating his "triumphant return" with an elaborate champagne feast.

Former Empress Zita is said to have remonstrated against the delay, pointing out to her husband that every minute counted. The ex-monarch was so sure of success, however, that he moved with the utmost leisure.

It now develops that the battle on Sunday was decided against Charles monarchist forces by volunteer high school students. The report that Charles attempted suicide originated from his violent weeping spells during which he sobbed out his determination to "end all." However, he never made any actual attempt to take his own life.

FRENCH LEAVE FOR U.S. AMIDST BIG OVATION

"Vive France," shouted the American attaches as the French were boarding their train.

"Vive L'Amerique," shouted back the French.

There were presentations of flowers and numerous exchanges of good luck and farewells.

There were more than 40 members of the French delegation. Their ship sails from Havre at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

EUGENE V. DEBS, FIVE TIMES CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT, EXPRESSES WISH FOR FREEDOM

Socialist Leader Has Been Keeping in Touch With Affairs of Outside World While in Federal Prison at Atlanta—Debs Model Prisoner, Says Prison Warden.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 29.—Eugene V. Debs, five times candidate of the socialist party for president of the United States and for more than a score of years recognized leader of his party in this country but who is now serving a term in the U. S. penitentiary here for violation of the espionage act, hopes to be out in the open world again soon.

For the first time since his incarceration Debs today expressed to a newspaperman his hopes for freedom when he met and talked with an International News Service representative.

The genial Debs' smiles obliterated the marks of prison life as the kindly old man met the reporter. His face is lined from the close contact with life that he has known, but his blue eyes twinkled and his hand clasp was that of the former Debs, hearty, warm and firm.

J. E. Dyches, warden of the prison, standing close by permitted little questioning of the prisoner beyond purely personal subjects.

Debs denied the persistent reports that his health is feeble.

"At this time I am enjoying good health. Since cooler weather set in, I have no complaints," he said.

Debs has been keeping a vital interest in the affairs of the day following in the closest possible detail through the newspapers the progress of the threatened railway strike and the disarmament conference at Washington. His opinions on these matters and other similar things, however, could not be obtained.

Persons close to prison life here have been chary of comments on the probable release of the prominent prisoner, mainly because they believe continued comment would only serve to stir up some factions to antagonism.

It also is stated in some circles that there is a belief that his release might be taken as an indication of being upheld in certain principles he has advocated.

Warden Dyches feels very kindly toward his prisoner. He characterizes Debs as one of the very best prisoners in the institution and says that because of the high mentality of the man, he is able to exert a very fine influence on others.

"Debs has always been a model prisoner," said the warden. "He has been given freedom of the grounds. He is allowed no privileges not accorded to other prisoners and realizes his position, which he accepts philosophically."

Debs has quarters in the hospital building. He does not occupy a cell but has a private room. The sun streams through the bars at his window at times during the day and the little apartment has a solemn air. On his table by the window books and papers are arranged in orderly fashion. He spends much of his time reading and writing, although what he writes did not become known.

Debs is permitted to receive many letters, but is allowed only the usual prison privilege of writing twice a week. Most of his correspondence, it is understood is carried on through a sister in Terre Haute, Ind.

Samuel Gompers, veteran president of the American Federation of Labor, called on Debs recently.

Gompers waited in the warden's office while Debs was summoned. When the two came face to face, they paused dramatically, according to witnesses of the meeting. They gazed steadily at each other for a moment, and then stepped forward to grasp hands.

Tears came to the eyes of Debs as Gompers said:

"Mr. Debs, I am glad to see you. A long time ago—a good many years ago, I used to call you 'Gene' and you called me Sam. 'I'd like to do that some time now.'"

Debs nodded assent.

The interview the correspondent had was hastened and short. At its end Debs said significantly and with a bright smile:

"I hope to see you soon—very soon—on the outside. Good bye."

EXPECT RULING WILL REGULATE R. R. STRIKES

Labor Board Expected To Hand Down Important Ruling.

PRECEDENT IS SET

Further Controversy In Rail Strike Is Now Forecast.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A ruling which will regulate and classify all future railroad strikes, is expected to be handed down by the U. S. Railway labor board.

The decision, it was said, will set a precedent in such cases. It is said that the ruling will point out that had the strike occurred which was set for Oct. 30, it would have been illegal and the union leaders would have faced arrest by the government for "conspiracy to paralyze transportation."

The ruling will be made as the result of the public hearing Wednesday when railway executives and the "big five" brotherhoods were cited before the board.

Protest of further controversy in the rail situation was seen today when it became known that railroad executives were proceeding with plans for new wage cuts. Application for such reductions, however will have to be made through the labor board.

Another development was the report of an open split between the railway unions. Executives officers of the brotherhood of engineers and the brotherhood of firemen and engineers, headed by Warren S. Stone, and W. S. Carter, are said to have demanded the railway chairman to sever relations with the brotherhood of railway trainmen. News of the break in the ranks of the "big five" brotherhoods came prior to the departure of the union chiefs for Cleveland.

SEEK YOUNG MINER WANTED IN MURDER CASE

Believe 20-Year-Old Miner Responsible for Priest's Death.

BLOOD HOUNDS FAIL

Funeral of Father Belknap Attended By Hundreds Today.

Lead, S. D., Oct. 29.—Search was conducted in the hills for miles around this city today for Andrew Rolando, a 20 year old miner, wanted in connection with the mysterious slaying of Father A. B. Belknap, pastor of St. Paul's cathedral, who was shot and killed early Wednesday morning. The priest was lured to the outskirts of the city to administer the last sacraments to a "sick man" and slain.

The hunt for Rolando followed the discovery in his room of a revolver and a hammer believed to have been used in the commission of the crime. Besides a bullet wound, the priest when found had been struck on the back of the head.

Rolando has not been seen since the time of the murder.

Bloodhounds brought here in an effort to help solve the slaying have failed to pick up the trail. The funeral of Father Belknap was held today. It was attended by the clergy and hundreds of laymen.

GIRL SHOTS MAN WHO JILTED HER

Columbus, Oct. 29.—Charging he "stole my honor," Miss Mary Hagan, 26, daughter of Mrs. Robert Burke, 184 East First Avenue, fired three shots from a .22 caliber at Ernest B. Ring, 34, Charleston, W. Va., when he emerged from the Desher Hotel during the busy hours of last evening.

One of the bullets is embedded in Ring's left arm and the other in his neck. His condition is not serious.

Both Ring and Miss Hagan were taken into custody by police. Ring immediately placed a charge of shooting with intent to kill against Miss Hagan.

According to a story told police by Miss Hagan, Ring, after two years' acquaintance with her, promised to marry her. Then, she said, without cause he turned his attentions from her and less than a week ago married another girl. Ring was on his honeymoon when the shooting occurred.

The attempted killing is the second chapter in proceedings instituted about a month ago by Miss Hagan against Ring. Then she sued for $10,000 damages for breach of promise, police said. The case has not yet been tried.

For nearly two years Ring was a non-commissioned officer in the medical department at Columbus, Barracks. He is a representative of Claude Meeker, broker, Miss Hagan's stepfather is a guard at Ohio penitentiary.

MARSHAL FOCH VISITS HARDING AT WHITE HOUSE

French Soldier Received By President Amidst Ovation

MAKES FORMAL CALLS

National Executives Meet Marshal During Great Demonstration.

Washington, Oct. 29.—With a flourish of trumpets and the cheers of a huge crowd ringing in his ears Marshal Foch, leader of the allied armies in the world war, called at the White House today and was received by President Harding.

Accompanied by Ambassador Jusserand and Gen. Pershing and under the escort of a troop of cavalry, the marshal was greeted by throngs along Pennsylvania Avenue. The White House grounds were jammed with people who cheered

FRANCE AND U. S. STAND TOGETHER

Washington, Oct. 29.—As the two oldest republics of the world, France and the United States will always stand together. Marshal Foch declared here today.

Asked by the International News Service if he anticipated that his visit would have any far reaching moral effect in the relations of the two nations, Marshal Foch said:

"France and the United States of America are the two oldest republics in the world. From the very beginning their relations have been extremely cordial.

"Our ideals are common to the two nations; the war has cemented with new bonds the old established friendship; I am afraid one does not have any chance to better relations which are already as good as they possibly can be."

wildly as the marshal entered.

At the White House entrance the marshal was received with much pomp and ceremony and he bowed in response to the cheers as he crossed the broad veranda, entering the executive mansion.

President Harding flanked on either side by the entire staff of military and naval aides, received the marshal in the blue room. The two dignitaries exchanged formal salutations and talked for some fifteen minutes and then Marshal Foch was driven down Pennsylvania Avenue to the capitol.

At the capitol, Marshal Foch called upon Vice President Coolidge.

Among the formal calls which Marshal Foch will make today will be one upon ex-president Wilson. The marshal called first on Secretary of State Hughes, General Pershing, as Acting Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy Denby, and Chief Justice Taft and then planned to call on the former president, just before going to the White House as the luncheon guest of President Harding.

The dignified national capitol, long used to distinguished guests, set aside its blasé airs and paid enthusiastic tribute to Marshal Foch.

Not since General Lafayette visited Washington in 1824, has there been so great a demonstration for a foreign visitor as that paid to Marshal Foch.

Marshal Foch will be a luncheon guest at the White House.

The activities of the marshal, while in Washington, will be tempered with moderation upon orders of his physician who has no intention of letting the distinguished French general wear himself out in response to the enthusiastic demonstrations upon his visit.

If it is possible Marshal Foch will go to Mount Vernon this afternoon to lay a wreath upon the tomb of George Washington. Tonight he will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the French embassy. He also will be presented with a sword by the faculty and students of Georgetown university, an expression of admiration from the Jesuit schools of America to the graduate of one of the Jesuit schools of France.

One of the first acts by the Marshal upon his arrival here was the acceptance of membership in a local post of the American legion.

NEAR TIDAL WAVE IN SOUTH

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 29.—A tide closely approaching a tidal wave, beginning late yesterday afternoon and swelling beyond bounds during the night, played havoc with property along several miles of the beach at Tybee, a resort near here. Residences were wrecked, bathhouses washed away, board walks destroyed and the pavilion attacked.

This is the football team developed at Central high school by Coach Jerry L. Katherman, which has won six victories so far, and five of them by the shut out route. The team has defeated Washington C. H. 27-0; Wilmington 19-0; Troy 16-0; West Alexandria 21-7; Hillsboro 21-0, and Friday defeated Greenfield 38-0.

HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDEERS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK DEFEATING GREENFIELD TEAM 38-0

Out from the hills that encompass Greenfield eleven football huskies with a reputation that had gone far and wide before, came to the confines of Gatch field Friday afternoon, learned their little football lesson at the hands of Coach Katherman's Central high squad, and departed crestfallen and absolutely bewildered on the short end of a 38-0 score.

McClain high came and saw, and it is to be hoped learned while the local eleven conquered in what was expected to be one of the hardest fought games of the season. Highly touted and bearing a bunch of beefy huskies that greatly outweighed Katherman's charges, the game marked a peculiar upset in the dope, not because of the result but because of the enormity of the score.

Particularly pleasing to the local fans was the playing of Paul Boxwell, full-back of the local eleven, and mentioned frequently on the sidelines as all-Olio interscholastic material. This lad sparkled throughout the contest, and completely out-shone the work of the much-touted Stroup, visiting full back, who was covered by the local line on practically every attempt.

Although with a shifted line due to Randall's absence from the game which necessitated Purdom going from end to half, the locals by a wide margin outplayed the visitors. Evidence of the wonderful defensive play of the locals, is given in the fact that the visitors made but three first downs, once when Stroup got away for ten yards, and twice when Armstrong slipped away from local tackles. During the rest of the time McClain high had the ball, they fumbled repeatedly and the locals followed the pellet unerringly.

In comparison to this offensive play, the local backfield negotiated 21 first downs and on many plays carried the ball for the downs in one buck. Late in the second period Greenfield stood on the 50-yard line and tossed four passes into the air in succession, all being incomplete. Later the visitors attempted another pass which also failed. McClain not working one pass during the game. McClister used fewer passes than usual for the locals, but three of the seven attempts were good, one scoring a touchdown. The locals outplayed Coach Hayes' eleven by always taking advantage of the unexpected. Stopped after a brilliant march on line charges, they resorted suddenly to the forward pass. Halted within the shadow of the goal posts they took advantage of the field goal. Boxwell kicking a place kick from the 25-yard line in the first quarter.

The playing of the local make-shift backfield was a revelation. Purdom, out of position, finding himself in the last half for long gains. The work of Smith at end, D. Currie at guard, Yeakley at center and Hendrickson at tackle was also exceptional. Watts and Uhl, the visiting flankers, played best for Greenfield. The lineup and summary:

Boxwell kicked off to Greenfield's 38, and four succeeding passes failed, giving Xenia the ball on Greenfield's 38. McClister made 25 around end, as the half ended on Greenfield's 18-yard line. Score, Xenia 24, Greenfield 0.

Boxwell kicked off to Stroup to start the second half, and the big fellow marathoned 80 yards to the goal, only to be called back for running out of bounds. The visitors took the ball on the 35, and Armstrong fumbled and recovered, losing a yard. Stroup could only contribute one, and Carter punted to McClister on Xenia's 45. Fuller added two yards and McClister four, when Wain recovered Boxwell's fumble on the 50. Stroup made two and then Smith threw Armstrong for a loss. Stroup added another and then Carter punted into the end zone, giving Xenia the ball on the 20. Purdom and McClister failed to gain and Boxwell punted to Carter on Greenfield's 43. Armstrong fumbled and Don Currie recovered on Greenfield's 45. McClister lost three and Boxwell picked up 5. A pass failed and Boxwell punted to Greenfield's 22. Two passes failed and Boxwell punted to Greenfield's 40. Robinson was stopped with no gain, but Stroup picked up 5 and was injured in the play. Carter punted to McClister on Xenia's 20. Boxwell dashed off 19 yards through center, Purdom made ten around end, Boxwell picked up 15, and Purdom added 12 to Greenfield's 19 yard line in four attempts. Oct. 5, 1921
My Dear Colonel:-
Mrs. Runyan and I are ready to make a selection for a winter home. You can feel free to refer anybody to me concerning this Winter Home Sub-division. I visited your operations in Florida last winter, and while the President of a bank must be mighty careful in recommending investments, yet it is a duty to encourage that which is right, and which will contribute to the common good.

I want a winter home in Florida and your plans fit exactly into my desires. I can truthfully say that I do not know of a more beautiful spot anywhere than you have selected for winter home sites. I have taken the trip to the Ocean from there, it is delightful, and the ride to Jacksonville is just like going to Cincinnati from where I live. I had the fun of fishing, and I felt the good results that come from the climatic conditions, and the freedom from strain.

Your houses are charming. I have had a great deal of experience in building. I can truthfully say they are well built and modern in every way, and the man who buys one has a bargain. My belief is that this property will advance very rapidly in value and the owners of these Winter Home sites will have a high class investment.

Friends visited my Florida farms and for years they urged me to build them winter homes there . . . . .

THEY came—they saw—and then they insisted that I provide them with winter homes there. These folks who have fought the battle for years wanted to enjoy the health-giving climate, the balmy air, delightful sunshine and the medicinal properties of Green Cove Springs. They wanted to PLAY AGAIN—to enjoy a second youth—A YOUTH PLUS EXPERIENCE. I could not continually refuse their requests, and, only after all preliminary work, costing thousands of dollars, had been finished, did I give my consent. I am now helping them to live 10 years longer than could ordinarily be lived under usual conditions. I am assisting them to enjoy MATURE YOUTH—and I want to give you the same opportunity.

Your Modern Florida Winter Home Will Cost You Less Than to Build an Ohio Barn!

I am not going to put you on a 25 foot lot, my friend, but on a plot of ground 100 x 150 feet, located in my model sub-division of made streets and all improvements. You can buy this site for $450 and the purchase carries the right to have me build you, when you are ready, an architecturally attractive bungalow (with electric lights, running water, toilet and bath) complete, for the exceptionally low price of $1350—a modern, comfortable winter home in Florida costing less than to build an Ohio barn.

In back of this house you will have a garden plot just big enough to keep you healthfully busy when you are not playing golf or enjoying the beautiful, picturesque St. Johns River. I want to give you the chance to enjoy Florida sunshine—to motor to Jacksonville in an hour over a macadam drive—to visit favorite ocean picnic spots and yet live just far enough away from the sea so that you won't get its dreariness.

Men with keen business judgment of sound investments, such as Mr. Runyan, the Lebanon banker, are selecting winter homes and sites in this garden spot of Florida, because they realize its wonderful possibilities, not only from the health standpoint, but from the point of a profitable financial investment. ## VEGETATION ON MOON SAYS ASTRONOMER

New York.—Because of the reported discovery of vegetation on the moon by Professor W. H. Pickering, noted Harvard astronomer, the recent eclipse aroused unusual interest.

The eclipse, occurring at 4:14 o'clock and lasting until 7:34 o'clock on the night of October 16, was only a partial one and escaped the notice of the average man in the street. Assuming that Professor Pickering's observations that there is vegetation on that luminary are correct, astronomers speculated as to the effect of the earth's shadow on growing crops there. He has advanced the theory that two and one half days of sunshine on the cloudless and atmosphereless moon gives it sufficient warmth to start vegetation, some of which reaches maturity within two days.

On the theory that the eclipse produces a cold wave fatal to vegetable life, Pickering contends that it would come as a frost that would destroy much of the vegetation. He believes, however, that two crops grow on the moon during the four-day span of sunshine in some parts.

The recent eclipse was the second and last of the year. The first a total eclipse occurred shortly after midnight on April 22.

CIVIL SERVICE BODY ATTEMPTS TO ASSIST LABOR SITUATION

The State Civil Service Commission of Ohio has come to the aid of the unemployed in Ohio by including in its November bulletin calls for examinations from which in all probability over one hundred persons will receive permanent appointment to positions in the classified service of the state. Lists of vacancies in the various state departments have been compiled and the November bulletin calls for examinations for 34 different grades of positions, from which 1 to 10 appointments will be made as soon as the eligible lists can be certified. Salaries for these positions range from $4000 down to $600 per annum.

The list is by far the largest ever included in a single bulletin and the Commission is anxious to have all appointments made as soon as possible, thus utilizing the capacity of the state to fill positions where help is actually required immediately. All these examinations will be conducted during the week of November 14, and immediate action is necessary by all interested. The bulletin which is now in press will be ready for distribution in a few days and will be mailed free to all who request it. It gives full particulars of all the examinations called places and dates on which they will be held, together with the salaries, duties of the positions and the requirements for admission to the same.

The force of the explosion blew out all the doors and windows in the plant.

BREWERS ARE GIVEN PERMISSION TO SELL BEER NOW ON HAND

Authority Given To Sell Beverage for Medicinal Purposes.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Brewers will be permitted to sell beer, which they now have on hand for medicinal purposes, it was announced officially by the treasury department today.

Dry advocates have protested against the sale of beer which has accumulated in the breweries and have urged that only such beer as has been made since the issuance of the beer for medicinal ruling should be permitted to be sold. If such a ruling were issued it would delay the sale of medical beer for some weeks. Secretary Mellon on Monday is expected to issue a formal ruling permitting the sale of beer now held by brewers.

Internal revenue Commissioner Blair conferred with Solicitor Mapes today on the matter of the sale of accumulated beer and was informed that the sale of such products was entirely legal.

"DORA THORNE" TO BE GIVEN BY LOCAL CAST

Arrangements to present the play "Dora Thorne," is being made by the cast which recently presented the melodrama, "The Kentucky Colonel" at the Xenia Opera House for the benefit of the Pride of Xenia Council, Daughters of America.

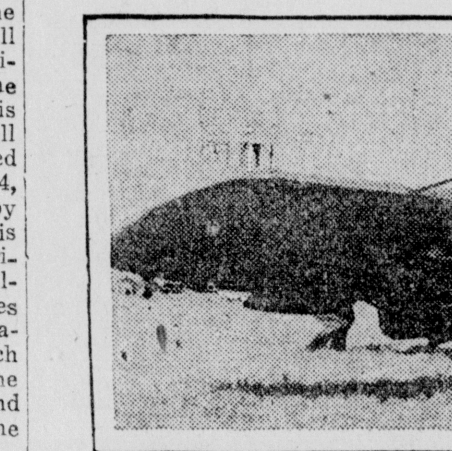

This cast, with Miss Helen Ford and Robert Hurley playing the leads and under the direction of E. R. Richards of this city, presented the same play in Spring Valley for the Daughters of America, and Friday night appeared in Bellbrook. Large audience greeted them at both places.

Mr. Richards, who directed and trained the cast, and Mrs. Richards, who took part in "The Kentucky Colonel" when it was played here, are former professional actors.

The cast has been highly complimented by the professional manager in which the play was presented. Members of the cast supporting Miss Ford and Mr. Hurley are: William Horner, E. R. Richards, the manager, Mrs. Richards, Frank Sheets, Elmer Shoemaker, Mrs. Lida Reed, Miss Lena Balmire, Miss Esther Ford, Misses Marjorie Shoemaker, Dorothy Botoroff, Frieda Shaw and Albert Richards. Mrs. Ella Mills appeared with the cast when the play was presented in Xenia and Spring Valley.

Miss Virginia Horner was the pianist, and William Horner furnished a musical feature with the rattle bones.

AMERICA'S LATEST AERIAL WAR WEAPON AS DESTRUCTIVE AND NOVEL AS TANKS

An armored military aeroplane, designed for attacking infantry either entrenched or in the open and, for this task, equipped with thirty machine guns capable of firing 3,000 shots in four seconds is America's latest weapon of destruction. The plane, invented by J. M. Larson, recently flew from Hicksville, La. to Washington, D. C., where it was inspected by army officers of the army and navy. Its speed more than 140 miles per hour, and its mobility, which has been compared with that of an attack single-seater, make it an almost impossible target from the ground. For defense two of its thirty machine guns are mounted on each side of the pilot's seat ready to greet an attacking plane. It is known as the "JL-12 Attack Plane" and is a type in advance of the latest foreign all-metal planes. The plane is a monoplane, with a 40-foot wing span and is 32 feet long. It has a 400 horse power Liberty motor capable of 140 miles an hour. All vital parts are protected with armor 3-16 of an inch thick. The guns are so distributed that they can be fired from any direction. The illustration shows the plane. In the center, left

"THE BREWERS HAVE SEVERAL HURDLES YET TO MAKE" SAYS WAYNE WHEELER.

A new and intense struggle over the sale of beer and wine in the United States appears in prospect as an aftermath of the publication of the long-awaited regulations governing the use of those beverages for medicinal purposes.

Back of the announced purpose of the opposition was a belief that once the manufacture and sale of beer and wine on any scale were sanctioned the prohibition forces would have a real fight on their hands to banish them.

Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, said the ruling means converting drug stores into "booze shops," but added "the brewers have several hurdles yet to make before medical beer is a reality."

"Most of the State laws prohibit it," he said; "others have limitations that make it impracticable. For instance Minnesota allows only one pint in ten days; Michigan only eight ounces of liquor."

State laws prevent physicians in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Iowa from prescribing beer and wines.

Among the States in which "it will be practicable to prescribe beer" Mr. Wheeler named New Jersey and Pennsylvania. But the brewers, he predicted will have trouble in getting permits owing to their past records.

It seems, and it is so stated in the soon-to-be-well-known regulations, that any patient may have ten quarts of beer and two quarts of wine this day. Tomorrow and tomorrow and all the tomorrows he may have as much more. There is no limit on the day-to-day prescriptions that may be issued and filled for a single "ailing" individual.

This is the sort of "fake legislation" that seems inherent in our fudding, puttering, experimental ideas on prohibition. It will work double harm. The debauching of drug stores, the incentive to bootleggers and the certain trouble it will make will do injury to the cause of the reasonable liberals who would like to see light beers and wines legalized. It is a blow at that absolute prohibition that has been decreed for us and will add enormous burdens to an overworked, troubled, enforcement bureau.

THE SUN MAY BE IN YOUR LIFE, EVEN WHEN NOT IN THE SKY.

The passing of Mrs. Mary A. Bass, the original of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," calls the attention of the public afresh to an extraordinary literary success that came to a woman who simply set down the common things observable about her in the life of every day.

When Charles Dudley Warner wrote of "My Summer in a Garden," Mrs. Warner said: "I always told Charley he would be a success if he would just write about nothing at all." "Main Street" is a prose epic of the daily—and some would say the deadly—commonplace. Zona Gale's "Lulu Bett" and Westcott's "David Harum" (the latter refused by scores of publishers) are similar examples of books that grew out of the wit and the will to see the underlying significance of everyday things.

William Dean Howells told a young writer he could not do better than learn to describe his own room. Dr. Eliot, of Harvard, in "The Forgotten Millions," drew a memorable social picture, not all in hard lines, from the sober, "humdrum" lives of lowly summer neighbors.

Alice Caldwell Hegan suddenly realized the literary material in the sordid shanty-and-dump part of Louisville where she was putting in much of her time in altruistic labors. The genius of the title of the book is in the addition of the Cabbage Patch to the name of the heroine. The author has triumphantly shown to thousands of those who live amid squalor and filth that the sun may be in a life, if not in a sky. Her cheery philosopher and neighborhood benefactor is a universal type. That is why the book has gone into many languages and has brightened the existence of myriads who recognize the picture of the common human instincts exemplified and typified in a compelling personality.

Today the "Cabbage Patch" itself bears witness to the influence of the work of the writer and the influence of her original many times multiplied in print. A civic improvement club has banished the weeds and the cluttered disorder, if it has not evicted my lady Poverty. The picturesqueness peered therewith. The broom of Mrs. Wiggs will still be sweeping clean, years hence in places of which she never dreamed.

NO MORE WONDERING "WHICH PHONE RANG."

In addition to a wider range of telephone service, both local, in towns where the two companies operate separately, and long distance, there will be numerous other advantages to the telephone users as a result of the consolidation of the Ohio Bell and Ohio State Telephone Companies.

A feature which will please all who use the telephone is the coming elimination of two telephone directories in cities where dual service now exists.

Subscribers will receive one bill from one company for all telephone service and will have but one organization to negotiate with for new or additional service.

Existing duplicate lines of the two companies can gradually be consolidated, thus improving the appearance of streets and highways.

An added attraction produced by the elimination of duplicate service will be the passing of that temper-trying experience of trying to decide which telephone rang.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Mr. Marshall Lupton and bride have returned from their wedding trip.

The last Sunday excursion of the season was given on the Pan Handle yesterday and was well patronized, about sixty persons out of Xenia spending the day in Cincinnati.

A costly fire occurred on the Lower Bellbrook pike yesterday, which completely destroyed the residence of Mr. Frank McClellan, together with the entire contents of the property.

The big distillery at Trebeins has begun operations and about that station there is a scene of activity. The improvements are not quite yet complete and are being finished and the large plant will soon be in first class shape.

Two attempts have been made within the past week to wreck cars of the D. & X. traction company and the motormen are using a good deal of caution and are constantly on the lookout for obstructions on the track.

EXERCISING THE FACE

A little while ago we were talking of exercise and massage as a means of strengthening the muscles of the face and therefore keeping the face young. I recommended rubbing the skin with cream to act as a lubricant and then rubbing the face vigorously with palm of the hand.

With the cream on the skin this ance. Even so small an exercise as this should not be neglected.

Hazel D.—The castor oil in the pilocarpine tonic will not make the hair oily, as there are other ingredients in the formula to counteract the oil.

Naomi—Hair that is destroyed by the electric needle will not grow again, but this does not mean that you will never have any more superfluous hair, for whatever caused it once, if repeated, will make it happen again, though it will not be the same growth. If you mean that your eyes are shadowy and have always been so, there is no reason to suppose this condition indicates any internal disorders. It is probably an attraction that is as natural to you as dimples are to others.

MIAMI-DENISON CLASH IMPORTANT IN OHIO CONFERENCE

Cleveland, Oct. 29.—Reserve is given an outside chance to win by football experts when it clashes with Coach Botes' Wooster eleven on Vannhorn field today. While the showing of the Cleveland team thus far has not been impressive, there is much good material there and proper handling should enable them to give any team in the conference a hard fight.

The outstanding game, however, on Ohio conference gridirons today is that between Miami and Denison at Miami, which is thus far undefeated should win but the Denison team is much stronger than it was when beaten by Wooster 31-0 earlier in the season.

Oberlin is favored to win in its clash with Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware although it will miss McPhee, the crack half back, who has been an important factor in all scoring this year.

Other games are Wittenberg vs Cincinnati at Cincinnati; Mt. Union vs Akron at Akron; Defiance vs Findlay at Findlay; Heidelberg vs Case at Tiffin; Ohio Northern vs Hiram at Hiram; Baldwin Wallace vs Ohio at Athens; Kenyon vs Oberlin at Westerville; Creighton vs St. Xavier at Cincinnati; Bowling Green vs Toledo at Toledo.

Styles BY LENORE

PARIS. The exactions of a hat do not often permit free play in arranging the hair, either with originality or most becomingly, but in the evening, ah! then one may take on the classic spirit of the Middle Ages or the charming whimsicality of the gayest Parisienne. A coiffure popular with French women today is the saucy chignon shown at the top of the sketch, particularly attractive for a narrow oval face.

A somewhat rounder face and young, will look charming under the curly disarray of the headdress which follows, particularly if the features happen not to be regular, while the two styles after that may be attempted safely only by the smoothest featured for nothing will so quickly emphasize such little mistakes as a somewhat unsymmetrical nose, for example, as drawing the hair tightly back on the forehead.

Another silhouette of the head shown in Paris is at the bottom of the sketch, enhanced by a gilt fillet and comb to match. Combs, by the way, are becoming increasingly popular, and the newest ones seen in the smart French shops are made of shell carved with flowers tinted in blues or reds.

FIRE AT PENN STATE COLLEGE State College, Pa., Oct. 29.—An explosion in a chemical laboratory yesterday was followed by fire which caused damage to the horticultural building at Pennsylvania State College, estimated at $35,000. ## THE HOPEFUL VIEW.

Things are looking pretty black, trouble everywhere we see, and we're prone to cry, "Alack," and to murmur, "Hully Chee!" But there's comfort in the thought that they've looked that way before, and the passing seasons brought all things right side up once more. Now we weep and wring our hands, and denounce the doggone luck, for the people of all lands seemingly have run amuck. Statesmen do their little stunt in a rattled, locoed way, but the problems they confront will be solved some pleasant day. Crime and license seem to rule, seem to thrive in every town; let us keep our foreheads cool—everything will settle down. But there's nothing new in sight, nothing new in any clime; everything comes out all right if we only give it time. After every three-ring war, every routine thing expires, and the evils we abhor were confronted by our sires. And our fathers doubtless said, as their sons remark today, that all righteousness was dead, and the furies were at play. But they lived to see the dawn of a good and wholesome time, when the bogies all were gone, with the seething wave of crime. And our troubles too will cease as the seasons run their course, and we'll boost the dove of peace till our larynxes are hoarse.

Today's Talk by George Matthew Adams

DIVIDING

A young man wrote the writer of these Talks the other day and told of entertaining so much pity for himself that he well might become a useless proposition.

Then he got to thinking the matter over and decided that he would try out something else. And this is what he decided to try out—to use every opportunity that he could to make others happy!

I have this remark to make; this man will be more successful in everything he undertakes, no matter what it may be.

We really do not accumulate until we begin to divide.

And in dividing we get new viewpoints. Not until we come to feel the personality of another person do we know him.

The soldier who walked and fought and went through the most terrific experiences of deprivation, learned what dividing meant.

And it often happens that not until we are forced to divide with others what we have, do we realize the pleasure that division brings.

Divide—and be glad to give as much as you take!

The great law of all Nature is to divide. The Spring gives refreshments to the bird as well as to the traveler. And from the flowers we get beauty and fragrance—while the busy bee takes away from the heart of these same flowers honey that is sweeter than sugar.

We often get happiness—but we cannot get it unless we start right off to divide it.

And the earlier we learn to divide, the longer will we have to thrill over its many benefits.

XENIA'S NEW BUILDING CODE WILL BE PASSED AT NEXT REGULAR MEETING OF CITY COMMISSION; DEMANDS MET

Xenia's new building code ordinance, as prepared by a committee appointed for that purpose from the Chamber of Commerce, was placed on its first reading by the City Commission, Thursday night, and will be passed at the next regular meeting.

The passing of the ordinance providing a building code for the city, is considered the last step in fulfilling the demands of the Ohio Insurance Inspection Bureau which requested that this and several other requirements be carried out, in giving Xenia the same fire insurance rating that it has held in the past.

At the time of the first inspection

Bureau, the fire insurance classification of Xenia, was raised from three points to 4 1-2. City Manager T. H. Zell asked the engineers for another examination and at that time they agreed that the classification would be unchanged if certain conditions were carried out.

The addition of one man to the fire department force, the painting and marking of all police and fire alarm boxes, the adoption of a building code and the installation of auxiliary water power station, were recommendations made by the Bureau which have either been carried out or are in the course of being carried out.

The city now has under construction the new auxiliary water station on Cincinnati pike, for which pumps arrived, Friday morning. Immediate installation will put the plant in the shortly it is said, and complete the last requirement laid down by the Bureau. It was estimated that if the classification of 4 1-2 had been settled on Xenia, citizens would have paid an extra $20,000 a year for their fire insurance from what they pay now. On the other hand the requirements were carried out with little expense. The addition of a fireman adds $1,200 a year to the expense, while the new water station will cost $7,250, all of the expense of meeting the requirements of the bureau being paid for the first year by the saving to citizens.

The building code, makes the last cog in the effort to keep Xenia on a low insurance classification. The code which is in course of adoption is the handiwork of the Chamber of Commerce Committee, appointed for that purpose, the personnel of which is H. S. LeSourd, Elmer Anderson, J. M. Fletcher and E. S. Davidson. The building code was passed on by this committee, at a meeting, Tuesday night, and recommended by the committee to the commission. An ordinance was immediately drawn up by City Solicitor G. A. Finney encompassing the code which will make it operative within a short time.

The building code for Xenia follows out in principal that suggested and endorsed by the state department of building inspection. Its principal feature is to enlarge that section of Xenia known as the business section and which engineers of the Inspection Bureau said did not cover sufficient area. The new business section, according to this code is bounded on the north by Church Street, on the east by Collier Street, on the south by Third Street and on the west by Galloway street. It provides a restricted building zone, where all buildings will have to be erected under the city regulations and with attention to the state building laws and must be of a fire proof nature.

The same Chamber of Commerce committee is now working on a zoning ordinance, which is expected will be presented to the City Commission soon, and will regulate the erection of buildings in all parts of the city. Certain areas will be restricted by this ordinance for the erection of residences alone, business houses only, or industrial and factory buildings. The zoning ordinance will eliminate the possibility of a factory building, garage or similar industrial plant being erected within the so-called residential district, unless by an agreement of two-thirds of the residents living in that section. It is designed to eliminate the invasions of factories or other industrial plants into residential sections. Other zones will be restricted for factory sections or business sections and will be used only for that purpose.

The adoption of a plumbing code with the subsequent licensing of all plumbers in the city, and the possible appointment of a city plumbing inspector will follow, now it is said having also been a recommendation of the State Bureau of Inspection. Local plumbers, it is said are in favor of such a move and will welcome the licensing of plumbers. The license is subject to revoke by the city commission for violation of the city plumbing or building or health laws.

CASES DISMISSED BUT ONE IS FINED IN POLICE COURT

While on the witness stand in police court testifying in the case of Mrs. Theresa Blair, charged with selling, furnishing and delivering liquor illegally, Wilbur Donovan was suddenly arraigned by Judge E. D. Smith, on a charge of transporting liquor Friday afternoon, entered a plea of guilty, and was immediately fined $200 and costs.

The charge against Donovan followed when he denied that he obtained a quart of whisky from Mrs. Blair early in the morning of October 20, as charged by state prohibition officers who investigated the case, and said that he had obtained the whiskey at ten o'clock in the morning. Realizing that the defense would set up an alibi, Judge Smith had prepared an affidavit against Donovan, and when the latter's testimony came to this point, he dismissed the case against Mrs. Blair and arraigned Donovan before court attaches were aware of what had happened.

Donovan arranged to pay his fine. Paul Edwards, colored, charged with possessing liquor a case that was also prepared by the state officers here in conjunction with police, was dismissed from the charge by Judge Smith, on the grounds of insufficient evidence. In dismissing the case, Judge Smith said he was convinced that Edwards was guilty, but that the empty bottles introduced as evidence, were not sufficient to find him guilty on.

HAMILTON TELLS STORY OF FREDERICK WARDE TRAGEDienne

R. Hayes Hamilton, creator of the Hamilton Tragedienne, who is spending a short time, at his home in this city, went to Dayton Saturday where he will have dinner with his friend, Frederick Warde, the tragedienne, now appearing in that city, Saturday night.

Mr. Hamilton has been spending the summer in the east, and preparing a new lecture on Lake Placid and the Saranac Lake, in New York. He is now National Lecturer for the California Mission Play, and in that association became acquainted with Mr. Warde, who plays the lead in the famous Mission Play.

Mr. Hamilton tells the following story of the tragedienne: During the action of the Mission Play, when it was being presented in its former theater, a railroad passed near the place, and a switch engine invariably chose the time of the most impressive part of the play to make all the noise it could.

The tragedienne used to wish many an invective on the railroad company because of this interruption. "Xenia is another town where, the railroad runs past the theater," said Mr. Warde, and it developed that he had played in a Shakespearean role at the Opera House here many years ago.

"Sorry," said the constable, "but I'll have to arrest ye--ye've been drivin' along at the rate of fifty miles an hour."

"You are wrong, my friend," said the driver, "and here's $2 that says I wasn't."

"All right," returned the minion of the law, pocketing the money. "With all that against me I ain't going to subject the county to the expense of a trial."

A school teacher said to her boys: "Now, I am going to give each of you three buttons. You must think of the first as representing life, the second liberty, and the third happiness. In three days I want you to produce these buttons and tell me what they stand for."

On the appointed day the teacher asked one of the pupils for the buttons.

"I ain't got 'em all," he sobbed. "Here's life and here's liberty, but me mother went and sewed happiness on me trousers."

"My friends tell me," said the would-be author, "that there are many points in my writing that remind them of Kipling."

"Yes," replied the stony-hearted editor, "I noticed the points you speak of; punctuation marks!"

"Every evening I get Charley to explain the league of nations to me all over again," said young Mrs. Turkins.

"Doesn't it become tiresome?"

"A trifle. But I want to keep his mind on politics. The guessing is so much less expensive than it is in horse racing."

"Sir," said a fierce lawyer, "d you, on your solemn oath, declare that this is not your handwriting?"

"I believe not," was the cool reply.

"Does it resemble your hand writing?"

"Yes, sir; I think it don't."

"Do you swear that it does not resemble your handwriting?"

"Yes, I do."

"You take your solemn oath this writing does not resemble yours in a single letter?"

"Yes, sir."

"Now, how do you know that?"

"'Cause I can't write."

Adam Handy and his wife live in the country because they love it also because Mr. Handy is a gay dender and an enthusiast in that use ful art.

Feeling that winter was almost over, and with his hands itching for his gardening tools, Mr. Handy painted a sign announcing his name and occupation and nailed it in front of his house.

He got results, for Adam is a good gardener and reliable, but he wondered why his callers laughed so much before they talked business.

To all the world but Adam the reason was plain, for he had ignored the rules of spacing in his sign, which when complete read:

"A dam Handy Gardener."

"I have called, sir, to see if you will renew your subscription to our society for converting the heathen. Last year you gave sixpence."

"What! Aren't they converted yet?"

ENROLL 34 CHARTER MEMBERS THURSDAY AT CLUB MEETING

Thirty-four charter members were enrolled in the Business and Professional Women's Club, at the first open meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce, Thursday evening.

The Club was complimented with the presence of six members of the Springfield Club, who attended the meeting to present plans and assist the local members in their organization of the new club. The members of the Springfield club who attended the meeting to present plans and assist the local members in their organization of the new club. The members of the Springfield club who were present, were Mrs. Eva Millard, Miss Nellie Ebersole, President Miss Nellie Ebersole, Mrs. Ada Hutton, Miss Taylor and Mrs. James Robinson, of the Springfield Sun, State Publicity chairman. The officers of the local club were guests of the Springfield members at the last meeting held in Springfield.

Short talks by the Springfield visitors were given at the meeting, Miss Mildred Ebersole speaking upon the points on the organization of the Springfield Club, that would prove of value in the organization of the local club. Mrs. Eva Millard spoke of the work of the program committee, Mrs. Ada Hutton on membership, Miss Nellie Ebersole concerning finances, Miss Taylor about the work of the social committee, and Mrs. Robinson about the state federation and state publicity. The meeting was the first open meeting of the club and one of the issues was whether or not the club would become a part of the State and National Federation. A discussion of the subject followed Miss Robinson's talk, and it was decided to join the larger organization at a future date. The constitution of the Club was read at the meeting for the benefit of the new members. A motion was made that the rules be suspended, and the temporary officers remain in their present offices. Miss Faye Ledbetter was appointed vice-president of the club, a new office, and Miss Nellie Fletcher was appointed parliamentary. The Emma Fox book of parliamentary law was adopted by the members. The minutes of three preceding meetings were read by the secretary, Miss Louise B. Shaffer.

A resolution was passed at the meeting that the members should enter a protest with the City Commissioners in regard to the meetings being conducted by the Rev. S. Douglass McDuffie. The action taken by Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson was endorsed by the members of the meeting.

A report of the committee in charge of the Charlotte Reeve Conover lectures, which has been secured by the club was given at the meeting. Tickets for the program are now on sale and can be secured from Miss Elsie Canby.

WATER FAMINE NOW EXISTS IN HILLSBORO

Hillsboro, Oct. 28.—Hillsboro is experiencing a water famine and all consumers have been warned to use sparingly until relief can be afforded in the nature of an increased production.

It was announced a few days ago that only one well was furnishing water, and that only the sinking of additional wells would provide an abundance of water, and the town officials claim they cannot provide the money with which to pay for additional wells.

ROAD PATROL IS NOW SUGGESTED

Washington C. H., Oct. 28.—Present plans of County Road Superintendent Frank M. Kennedy are for trying out a systematic patrol of some high ways in Fayette county next year with a view to ascertaining the benefits to be derived from such a method of maintenance.

In counties where the patrol system has been established it has proven so highly satisfactory that the method has been extended, and the roads under patrol are kept in tip-top condition virtually throughout the year.

Turetted to Arrest Parents

Norwalk, Oct. 29.—Policemen who have been compelled to escort children home who violated the curfew ordinance threatened to arrest parents, if the children continue to violate the ordinance.

ASK A. L. TO PASS ON ALL DISCHARGES SHOWN BY PEDDLERS

City Manager T. H. Zell has asked Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion to appoint a member to inspect and approve or reject service discharge records shown by peddlers who seek to operate under the state law which provides that peddlers who have been in the service do not need to have a license.

The state law is all-powerful in this case, and with its recognition locally, authorities say they have been flooded with more peddlers than ever, and are not getting the pecuniary benefit that the $10 a day license fee, tacked on to satisfy merchants who appealed through the Chamber of Commerce, would naturally bring them.

Evidence have been produced of peddlers getting around the state law, which led to City Manager Zell asking for a Legion man to inspect all of the papers. Two peddlers recently ordered into Police Headquarters, said they were working for a man who was permitted to peddle goods because he was a discharged soldier. An examination of his certificates showed that fact to be correct, but the city ordered that the two men who were not discharged service men should pay a license fee. The ex-soldier said in that case he would operate personally, but his efforts to sell his goods showed that he was just a blind, carried by the real peddlers in order to let them out under the state law. They shortly left the city. Similar cases have frequently come to the attention of the authorities, and now a Legion man will inspect the papers of so-called ex-service men to see if they are bonafide.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "luggish" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

HALLOWEEN FUN FOR THE CONVALESCENT INVALID

Anybody who has ever been sick in bed knows that the hardest time to bear one's illness is on a holiday—when all the rest of the world is at play. This Halloween there are scores of convalescent invalids who are not able to accept invitations to parties or to enjoy the company of persons outside their own family, yet who would appreciate having their sickroom take on a "Halloween" appearance and would derive much pleasure in celebrating the occasion with some such simple game as that given below, which would not overtax their strength.

The decorations might be hung around the room when the invalid is taking a daytime nap; or the invalid's eyes might be bound with a silk handkerchief while the mysterious work of decorating is going on. A few bright pumpkin-faces (such as can be bought at any stationers' store) could be pinned to the window curtains. The lighting shades or bulbs could be gaily decked with orange and black so that when the lights were on, the room would be colored weirdly. Crepe paper streamers might be festooned here and there; and a real pumpkin, hollowed out, could stand on table or bureau as a Jack O'Lantern. If some outside friend of the invalid were to make this Jack O'Lantern, the invalid's enjoyment of it would be doubly keen; for when we are ill we are always pleased to know that our friends think of us.

When the invalid awakes, or when the bandage is removed from his or her eyes, and the decorations have been enjoyed, the following game might be started:

The Witches: From a child's copy of Mother Goose Rhymes trace the picture of an old witch on tissue paper; pin this piece of tissue to a piece of rather stiff cardboard and cut out around the witch figure. You can now color the cardboard with orange and black with a child's set of crayons. Place this witch on a large circular disc of stiff cardboard, securing the two together by running a pin through the middle of the witch figure and bending it flat on the under side of the cardboard disc. In this way, the witch will twirl around when spun with the finger. On the outside edges of the disc write at intervals: "Soon," "In Two Weeks," "Good Things Ahead," "Keep Smiling," "Surprise Soon" and "Yes." Now on a sheet of paper write these sentences: "When Will I Get Well?" "When Will I Go to a Real Party?" "Is There Something Unexpected in Store for Me?" (and any other sentences you like.) The invalid first reads aloud one of these sentences, then spins the witch on the dial; the top of her hat points to the answer on the outside of the disc when she stops spinning.

Following this game, a Jack Horner Pie, filled with messages from friends, could be "cut" by the invalid.

THE NEW GENERATION

By Jane Phelps

ONCE MORE JOAN IS SAFE. CHAPTER 76

Margaret was relieved when the next morning she found out who had been Joan's escort. She called Craig Forrester and told him all she knew. He had called her back in a few moments and told her that Calvin Hardy, the artist, was a man above reproach, that she had no cause to worry, at least until she had seen Joan.

"She says that being 40 doesn't count in a man, Craig," her voice was doleful.

"I love you at 38."

"Aren't you ashamed! You're as bad as the man who asked Joan to marry him on the telephone. By the way, I shall go down with her for dinner. She promised to tell me about him and I want to know more about last night. You may call for me about 10 if you will."

"I'll be there."

"Thank you! I don't know what I should do without you, you are so dependable."

"Marry me, then you'll always have me. If you don't you may lose me. Some other young girl of 38 may see my good qualities."

"The old dear!" Margaret murmured as she hung up.

Margaret Hayden knew that had it not been for Joan she would have married Craig Forrester. She could not marry, knowing Joan, unless she wished to lose her daughter—not the way Joan now felt about her.

Margaret found it growing harder to refuse to listen to his pleadings as the days passed, and he grew more insistent. So finally she had told him that until Joan was either reconciled, or married, she would not marry anyone.

"Now, Joan dear tell me all about last night. Mr. Hardy is a very fine looking man."

"Isn't he! I tell you, Mumsie. I felt so stuck up I could scarcely sit down. He's Martha's pet uncle and he is awfully fond of her even if they aren't a bit alike. He was going to take Martha out last night, and had told her she might invite me. Then when she was sick he wouldn't disappoint me. Bully in him, wasn't it?"

"Yes indeed, and you looked very pretty."

"Thanks to you for the new dress."

"So you danced afterward?"

"Just one dance at a club where he is known. He said he wouldn't take me to any others—silly of him, but I didn't say anything."

"I can imagine he might be careful of a girl's reputation." Then "It's rather strange that you liked him when he is so old."

"It is strange how much older a woman always is than a man. I heard you say once years ago that a girl was always older than a boy of the same age. I guess it is true always. Why, it seems to me that you must be years older than Mr. Hardy. You have been my mother so long."

"That's a funny reason. He might have been your father. I mean as far as age is concerned."

"Say, Mumsie! What in the world does Craig Forrester stick around you so closely for? I was going to tell Mr. Hardy you were my mother until I saw him, then I wouldn't tell him."

"But what did poor Craig have to do with it?"

"Oh, everyone asks if you are going to give me a stepfather, and it makes me wild!"

"What if I should?"

"Mother!"

"I didn't say I would, I only asked a question."

"I would go away and never come back. I told you once that I would and I haven't changed my mind. I should be disgraced."

"I wonder—"

"You wonder what?"

"If you really mean that! There is no disgrace attached to a widow marrying especially after so many years."

"I call it disgraceful for any woman with a grown daughter to even think of marrying again. I should hate to be ashamed of my mother."

"Oh, Joan!"

"I mean it! Why, it isn't decent. You've had one husband you've rot me. What more can you need?" Joan asked with all the impudence of self-centered youth.

"Nothing now, Joan, but I want more of you—want to be with you more. I want to be your friend as well as your mother."

"What queer notions you have acquired since you came to New York. You seem so changed, not motherly any more."

"Oh yes, I am!" Margaret was half laughing, half crying, as she took Joan in her arms and kiss her good-night.

Tomorrow—Joan Tells Margaret of Another Friend.

IT'S A GRAND OLD REMEDY

You can't keep strong and well without sleep. Whether your rest is broken by a painful hacking cough or just an annoying tickling in the throat, the system becomes weakened and rundown. Mrs. K. D. Drake, Childs, Md., writes: "After an attack of the 'flu' I was left with a severe cough. Nothing relieved me till I used Foley's Honey and Tar, which I can highly recommend. It covers irritated membranes with a healing and soothing coating, loosens phlegm and clears air passages. Sayre & Hemphill."
